Jonathan Lethem's As She Climbed Across the Table is two books in one: a parable about love and obsession, and a sharp satire of academia. It is narrated by Phillip Engstrand, a sociology professor who talks entirely too much. Phillip tells us the story of Lack, a hole in the universe opened by an accident of physics, and of the various academics who find themselves drawn in by it (pun ...

As She Climbed Across the Table was my 2nd book and my favorite. It is a great love story - boy meets girl boy falls in love with girl - girl falls in love with non-human void that absorbs everything. It is science - fantasy and love all rolled into one. This has been the book I have found myself buying again and again as gifts for friends and relatives looking for a new author to try. I ...

A bit of a mind blower. A story about relationships with a difference because one of the protagonists is a literal black hole albeit a rather selective one. Loads of ideas about relationships and perceptions but a strong narrative flow and an easy read in terms of text - the words aren't hard but what is being said takes some thinking about! Give it a go if you want something different.
