While Dmitri Mendeleev usually gets credit for the invention of the modern periodic table in 1869, Alexandre-Emile Béguyer de Chancourtois organized the elements by atomic weight five years earlier. While Mendeleev and Chancourtois arranged elements by atomic weight, the modern periodic table is ordered according to increasing atomic number (a concept unknown in the 19th century.)

Can France claim the first periodic table? Probably not, but a French Geology Professor made a significant advance towards it, even though at the time few people were aware of it. Alexandre Béguyer de Chancourtois was a geologist, but this was at a time when scientists specialised much less than they do today. His principal contribution to chemistry was the 'vis tellurique' (telluric screw ...

The periodic table is a tabular method of displaying the chemical elements. Its invention is generally credited to the Russian chemist, Dmitri Mendeleiev in 1869. He intended the table to illustrate recurring trends in the properties of the elements and the layout of the table has been extended over time as new elements have been discovered. The periodic table is now ubiquitous within the ...
