Explain the position Brookhart argues in Chapter 2 against rubrics that merely summarize the requirements of the task, as opposed to rubrics that describe evidence of learning. I agree with the argument and therefore; teachers need to provide the evidence required to assess the learning process. They should be against rubrics that only summarize the task requirements. Explain what Brookhart ...

Your thesis is an argument, not just an observation or a restatement of the prompt or question. It should be an argument that takes a stand people might disagree with. If you are writing about the Civil War, for example, the thesis "The U.S. Civil War was fought for many reasons good and bad" is not adequate. It should be a single, complete sentence. There are circumstances that may require 2-3 sentences, depending on the length of the entire paper.
